September 8 Select Native Plants to Enhance Your Garden Learn about native plant selection and preview some hard-to-find plants that will be available at the upcoming plant sale. Extension Master Gardener Volunteers Sheilah Lombardo and Harriet McCarthy will present this program.

September 15—16 Extension Master Gardener Volunteer Fall Plant Sale The sale will be held indoors at the Extension Office (see address above). Rain or shine, stop by between 9:00 AM and 2:00 PM on Friday and 9:00 AM and 12:00 PM on Saturday for a great selection of native plants, pollinator plants, flowering shrubs, and trees.

September 22 Way Down Yonder in the Pawpaw Patch The pawpaw tree is a native plant that produces unique, edible fruits. Learn more about this interesting plant and its place in North Carolina gardens. Plan to visit the pawpaw orchard in the Demonstration Garden when you attend this lecture. Extension Master Gardener Volunteers Walt Hall and Jim Nottke will present this program.

September 29 Grass: Lawns and Beyond Lawns are central to many home landscapes, but don't fit into every landscape. In this session, learn about lawns, alternatives to lawns, and other ways to incorporate ornamental grass in your yard. Extension Horticulture Agent and Director of the Arboretum at Tanglewood Park Leslie Peck will present this program.

October 6 Landscaping for Four Seasons Spring and summer are not the only time to garden. Plan a garden that will provide color and excitement all year long. Attend this session for ideas on plants that will keep your garden full of surprises through the seasons. Extension Master Gardener Volunteer Barb Trueheart will present this program.

October 13 Putting the Garden to Bed As the season comes to an end, it is time to prepare your garden for winter. Learn various fall tasks to help clean up your space and prepare for a bountiful harvest next growing season. Extension Small Farms and Local Foods Horticulture Agent Mary Jac Brennan will present this program.

For accommodations for persons with disabilities, please contact our office at 336.703.2850 no later than five days before the event.
