February 10 Plan and Plant a Spring Vegetable Garden Planning ahead is essential in your vegetable garden. This session will help you prepare for a bountiful harvest by teaching you which vegetables to select and when to plant them this spring. Jane Harrell and Barbara Trueheart, Extension Master Gardener Volunteers, will present this program.

February 17 Pruning Ornamental Trees Before spring growth begins, it is time to prune. Pruning promotes the health of trees. This session will provide information on the proper time and method for pruning trees that are commonly found in the home garden. Toby Bost, Extension Master Gardener Volunteer, will present this program.

February 24 Lawns in Your Landscape Lawns are central to many home landscapes. Learn to manage your lawn properly in the context of your garden and the environment. This session will cover the basics of spring lawn care. Leslie Peck, Horticulture Extension Agent, will present this program.

March 3 Berries in the Home Garden Grow berries successfully in your garden. This session will offer information on selecting and planting berries and how to achieve the best fruits. Mary Jac Brennan, Small Farms and Local Foods Extension Agent, will present this program.

March 10 Growing Amazing Tomatoes in the Piedmont This session will help you produce delicious tomatoes. Start off on the right foot by selecting the best heirloom and hybrid tomato varieties for our area. Then, use tips on preparing your soil, proper maintenance, and control of pests and disease to promote an optimal harvest. Wallace Williamson, Extension Master Gardener Volunteer, will present this program.
