Hungry to Help Blog

Each of our State 4-H Council Officers have chosen a specific area to focus on related to Hungry To Help. In order to share what they are doing with you and with our 4-H'ers, they have teamed up to create a Hungry To Help blog where they will share what they are doing. The State 4-H Council Officers will update monthly what they are doing and are asking that you share your stories as well! You can visit the blog by going to <http://nc4-hhungrytohelp.blogspot.com/>. We have created a post titled "Share What You Are Doing" and ask that you "comment" to this post in order to share your stories. The State 4-H Council Officers feel this is a great way to share the creative and fun things you are doing in your county related to Hungry To Help.

When you comment, please add your county! Also, all comments must be approved before they appear on the blog, so if you don't see it right away, don't worry. Thank you in advance for all of the work you are doing related to Hungry To Help and for sharing your stories!

Visit <http://www.4hmall.org> before 11:59 pm on 10/29/2010 to save 20% off everything in the store! You may purchase items from the store and be reimbursed with your 4-H scholarship dollars. Contact Annette at Annette_Presley@ncsu.edu or at 703-2863 to check your balance. All we ask is that you use the items purchased to market our 4-H program well!

Historic Bethabara Park Four Christmases for Children

December 4, 2010

5:30-8:00 PM

© Gail Innes

Come to Bethabara and enjoy the delights of the season by candlelight. Experience four unique Christmas traditions that settlers brought with them from their homelands to the backwoods of North Carolina. Make memories dancing in the English Squire's hall, during a game of checkers in the tavern, while sharing in a Moravian Lovefeast, and much more!

Advanced reservations are required.

Hurry, spaces fill up fast!
